

Main Street Looking For Classic Car Owners

“The Lufkin Main Street Program is looking for classic car owners,” according to Barbara Thompson, Lufkin Main Street Director. As a feature of the 19th Annual Hoedown on April 18th in downtown Lufkin, a Classic Car Show will be held with car owners lining up their beauties along First Street after they have strutted in place in the Parade at 10:30 A.M. “All classic car entries will be admitted--Model As, Model Ts, Woodys, Modified Street Rods, Muscle Cars, Chevys, Fords—anything that qualifies as a classic car, in other words, anything at least 20 years old or older—will be admitted,” Thompson says. “The more we have the better.”

Though no judging or prizes will be given away this year, Thompson believes the Classic Car show is a significant part of the Hoedown Celebration for two reasons. First, it provides a public forum for classic car owners to gather and interface with the public, swapping notes over where to buy cars, how to go about redoing one, and discussing the history and romance that goes with them. The second reason centers around the young ones. “Maybe by this, we can provide an automotive intrusion into a kid’s life. He or she may not know what a Reo is or know much about a Model A. Through the on-the-spot classic car owner, he may get some oral instruction about how significant a Model T was in the life of the nation or a Model A. Maybe he or she will want to become a classic car owner one day or just broaden his or her horizons.”

If you are a classic car owner and you’ve been itching to show off your automotive treasure, here’s all you have to do. Fill out the form at the bottom of this article, mail it, e-mail it or take it by the Main Street office in the City Hall on 300 East Shepherd Street in downtown Lufkin. If you need more information, call the office at (936) 633-0205. Don’t forget, too, that arts and crafts vendor applications are still being accepted.
